Virginia Energy Hosting Third Energy Education Series in Southwest Virginia on April 11th

The agency continues to receive written public comment on energy developments and other Virginia Energy programs during the series.

Buchanan Co., VA- The Virginia Department of Energy (Virginia Energy) continues its series of educational meetings regarding energy projects in southwest Virginia and other programs the agency offers.

The next meeting will be April 11th at 6:00 p.m. at the Appalachian College of Pharmacy located at 1060 Dragon Road in Oakwood.

This educational meeting will be an opportunity for the public to learn more about current projects underway, new programs funded by federal grants and the siting process for energy projects. There will also be a Question-and-Answer session on nuclear.

Questions should be submitted prior to the event, by April 9th, to Tarah.Kesterson@energy.virginia.gov.

Virginia Energy continues to receive written comment on the work of the agency via email at vaenergy@energy.virginia.gov or comments may be mailed to:
